The basics of defense at bridge are described in eight short, clearly explained lessons, with lots of practical examples.

Topics include opening leads, signaling, second- and third-hand play, and discards.

About the Author Bill Treble is a former bronze medallist in the Canadian Team Championships. Bill and his wife are both accredited bridge instructors that have taught the game for well over a dozen years. Over that time they have also hosted play-and-learn sessions and novice games that are an ideal environment for people to gain more experience after taking bridge lessons. Bill is a two-time Canadian Open Pairs champion and author of the acclaimed book Getting into the Bidding (Master Point Press, April 2012, ISBN 978-1897106-85-3).
