more appealing, but anyone would enjoy it. Liffey's adventures continue into Africa as her aunt Jean home schools her and uses a "safari" as part of their "school of life". What they don't know is that danger is waiting for them, seemingly everywhere they turn. I highly recommend the entire "Liffey Rivers" series for anyone. I am an adult and I love it! There are five books in this series, one short story book and one other mystery. Read them!

Liffey is an Irish Dancer and modern day Nancy Drew. You don't have to be an Irish Dancer to enjoy these books though. Great for 8-12 yr olds, or the big kid at heart.

Rainey My 11 yr old daughter is a competitive Irish Dancer and a voracious reader, so I was happy to come across this book, as well as others in the series. She read it cover to cover immediately and said it was a good book. Her reading level is pretty high for her age, so this was a bit of an easy read for her, but that's okay. The subject matter was a perfect match.

In Book # 4 of the seven Liffey Rivers Irish Dancing Mysteries, 13-year-old Irish dancer Liffey Rivers is on safari in South Africa with her eccentric Aunt Jean, en route to an Irish dancing competition in Johannesburg. After dodging a charging rhino, fending off a pride of lions and re-routing an enraged mother elephant, Liffey's problems have just begun. When Liffey is confronted by a deadly Black Mamba snake in the tall savanna grasses, she must rely on instinct and her Irish dance training to survive. At the Johannesburg Feis, Liffey's troubles continue and she again finds herself, this time with a little boy in a wheelchair, in the shadow of the serpent.

"...will keep you glued to your comfy chair...would delight an elementary or middle-school aged dancer..." - Irish Dancing and Culture Magazine
