Keith Lamb, Louise Howland : The Art of Conversation (Taoc Taoc) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Art of Conversation (Taoc Taoc):

Good content, nice box.By Rita Lotta BooksMuch better more sensible box than the goofy box with the Melissa Doug Family Box of Dinner Questions. This is a smaller box so it fits better in a suitcase or backpack. There are several questions on each card so a person can select the one they prefer to talk about. I have been using them at school to work with a group of kids working on social language skills. I may be judging a product by the container, but I am an itinerant teacher, so I need small boxes that are sturdy and pack well, not silly gimmicky boxes. It means a lot to me.5 of 5 people found the following review helpful. A Whole New Family DynamicBy Karen L.We have family dinners at least twice a week, with the whole extended family. We now do at least one of the questions at each dinner. The grandchildren are 8, 8 and 10. They immediately ask if I have a question ready. My sons were the most resistant, but they are slowly coming around. We are learning so much about each other, and laughing deep belly laughs, too. We are all examining our own behavior, and seeing how others see us. What a great idea!0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. There are great questions. Excellent vendorBy hoaganWe have been using these in our church Life Group in order to get to know each other and build relationships. There are great questions. Excellent vendor!

Designed to revive The Art of Conversation, TAOC is the ideal way to truly enjoy connecting with family, friends and new acquaintances. Carefully researched, developed and tested, even teens will enjoy turning off the screens and sharing ideas and experiences. With over 300 fascinating and conversation building questions, this game is for everyone.

About the Author Keith Lamb migrated from Norwich, Norfolk England to Australia in 1970 and formed the successful, multi-cultural glam-rock band Hush. As lead singer and co-writer for much of Hush's material, he led the band to great national success, with many top ten hits such as Glad All Over and Boney Maronie. Keith toured Australia and New Zealand almost continuously for almost a decade and was a regular compere on the music shows such as Countdown, Sounds Unlimited, Hey Hey Its Saturday, GTK and more. After Hush, Keith performed in the first production of Jesus Christ, Superstar. He produced many successful albums e.g. Pioneers (the poetry of Banjo Patterson set to music) which went triple platinum. Keith co-wrote many songs for Status Quo, including several top 10 hits such as Ol Rag Blues and Over the Edge. He has supported many British Rock acts, such as The Who. The ABC's Australian Story made a documentary, narrated by Louise, tracing some of Keith's life, from the Hush days to the present. Hush starred in the recent Countdown Spectacular Tour of Australia in 2006 to high acclaim. Louise Howland is an Australian who has traveled widely and worked in many fields, including as a psychiatric nurse and music teacher. Amongst her loves are nature, books, writing, music, art and travel. Louise has a natural gift for lateral thinking. Louise formed the company Rajmahal in 1986. Rajmahal (www.rajmahal.com.au) manufactures and wholesales unique embroidery designs and materials, exporting to the USA, Canada, UK, South Africa, Turkey and various countries in Europe. Louise is a monthly columnist for Embroidery Cross Stitch magazine. She is studying for a Masters degree in Children's communication. Louise and Keith are passionate about conversation and its benefits. They have researched and developed TAOC as a labour of love over many years.
