

(Read free) Theatre, Intimacy Engagement: The Last Human Venue (Studies in International Performance)

Theatre, Intimacy Engagement: The Last Human Venue (Studies in International Performance)

A. Read

*audiobook / ebooks / Download PDF / ePub / DOC

Download

Read Online

#3257015 in Books Alan Read 2007-12-14 2009-07-21 Original language: English PDF # 1 8.50 x .75 x 5.50l, 1.00 #File Name: 0230235247323 pages Theatre Intimacy and Engagement The Last Human Venue | File size: 44.Mb

A. Read : Theatre, Intimacy Engagement: The Last Human Venue (Studies in International Performance) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Theatre, Intimacy

Engagement: The Last Human Venue (Studies in International Performance):

This title unravels politics from theatre in order to propose a new means to politicize performance. Performance analyses ranging from child actors, animals and objects to reflections on the innovative theatre work of Societas Raffaello Sanzio, Forced Entertainment and Goat Island combine to offer a radical critique of performance studies.

'This is a rich and rewarding book, written with feeling and a deep commitment to its many, various and often unpredictable subjects. Readers who accept its generous invitation will be seduced, provoked and encouraged to think afresh about how they understand their theatre, their politics and their intellectual engagement.' - Nicholas Ridout, School of English and Drama, Queen Mary, University of London, UK 'Read's polemic poses a vehement and noteworthy challenge, not least for the urgency with which he calls for an ethics of practice and scholarship.' - Dominic Johnson, Contemporary Theatre About the Author ALAN READ is currently Professor of Theatre at King's College London. In the 1980s he directed the neighbourhood theatre, Rotherhithe Theatre Workshop, in the 1990s he lived and worked in Barcelona and was Director of Talks at the Institute of Contemporary Arts in London. Alan Read is the author of Theatre Everyday Life and the editor of The Fact of Blackness and Architecturally Speaking.